LOCAL LABOR BUREAU RANKS FIRST IN STATE

There was considerable satisfaction and pride expressed at the report made by the Wisconsin branch of the Employment Service had moved into the first place of all the states in the service for the entire year. The report of the Janesville office and the untiring efforts of those in charge of the work in this district helped materially in placing Wisconsin at the top of all offices in the state. The office is completely organized and running without a ripple. The thorough training given to all employees connected with the service by the state office, has shown the best results. All superintendents of offices in Wisconsin are instructed to produce the maximum amount of service to both employers and employees. The show of the office and the results of the work in this district have been a source of pride to the people of Janesville. The office is now in the hands of the General Motors Plant, the return of men from War industries, and the demobilization of the army, there will be much work for this office. The main object of this service will be to place both men and women in positions which they are best qualified to fill. Janesville citizens should make and their wages known to this office and thus take advantage of this excellent service. We not only furnish help and secure positions for common labor, but we also have applications on file for positions such as bookkeepers, clerks, and accountants.

LARGE CROWD ATTEND ANNUAL DANCING PARTY

Over two hundred people danced at the annual dancing party given by the Janesville Y. M. C. A. at the Y. M. C. A. hall on Wednesday evening. The event was the 33rd annual ball of the Rock River Lodge No. 210, B. O. E. F. The crowd was one of the largest that has ever attended a dance in the city.

What is the condition at the present time? The committee composed of J. J. Dunn, F. J. Dixon and J. J. Barry decided that there would be no dance at the Y. M. C. A. hall on Wednesday evening. The committee in charge of the dance decided that there would be no dance at the Y. M. C. A. hall on Wednesday evening.

OLDER BOYS ATTEND RACINE CONFERENCE

Twenty delegates to the Older Boys' conference, which starts today at Racine, left this morning for that place. The delegation stopped off at Beloit to witness the football game between Beloit and Janesville high schools. The conference will be in session over Sunday. Community workers will address the meetings. The object of the conference is to plan for a betterment campaign to be carried out by the older boys in their respective communities.

The representation from Janesville consists of members of the Y. M. C. A. and delegates from various churches. Secretary Phelps of the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A. accompanied the Janesville delegation to Racine.

LUTHERAN CHURCHES HELD UNION SERVICE

At 10 o'clock Thanksgiving morning the three Lutheran churches in the city, St. John's, St. Peter's, and the First Lutheran church, held a union service at St. John's church. The services were in charge of Pastor E. F. Fuchs and the Reverend Thorsen preached the sermon which appears below:

"He hath not dealt so with any nation."

Text: Ps. 147: v. 26.

The story of the people of Israel is unique in the history of the nations. Great empires have risen, flourished and crumbled to ruin but Israel remained. Her history, laws and her literature continue to be of absorbing interest to the world. Lying at the intersection of three continents, surrounded by mighty military powers, her independence was preserved. Not gifted with artistic genius like Greece, or political and military genius like Rome, a race of simple, earnest, earnest people, she continued to yield an enviable influence in history. Attacked again and again by great military powers, when it would seem that Israel must be ground like wheat between the upper and nether millstones, yet it was the millstones that crumbled the wheat that remained intact. Deported again and again, the Jews continued to live as a people with a fish, and turning it upside down. And as many times her national life was resurrected. What was the secret of her remarkable power? It was the words of the text: "He hath not dealt so with any nation." It was this consciousness of being God's peculiar people that was the marrow of her life and the source of her national strength. The Lord by God had chosen them to be a special people that set on the face of the earth. It was this consciousness that gave them unshakable faith in their peculiar destiny among the nations of the earth.

I have said this much of the history of Israel for the purpose of drawing a parallel and to make the applications to our selves as a people. As Israel was God's elected instrument in the spiritual redemption of humanity, so we are to be God's chosen instrument in the political regeneration of the world. Does not the origin, the past history, and the present relation to the nation of Israel, that lesson upon us with compelling force? What other nation by position, traditions and ideals could better serve humanity as the exponent of freedom in this crisis of the world's history? May we not with devout souls and hearts overflowing with joy exclaim: "He hath not dealt so with any nation." But I should be the first one to dispense myself with a to appear in the novel role of a disguised flatterer. We should not dare to thus speak in the face of the great God who said: "Speak not thou in thine heart saying: for my righteousness God hath brought me in possession of this land."

Let us reflect on America's singular advantages. The opportunity and the mission and destiny—if only we rise to the occasion and consciousness of God's providential purpose. Upon discovery of America, the old world tyranny made desperate attempts to take possession of her. The success of France would have meant the rule of the Jesuit and the auto-inquisition. The success of Spain would have meant ignorance and the inquisition. Why were these mighty powers driven in their attempts by a few men of faith and courage? It was the flag of France or of Spain that flew over the country, but the flag of the United States that flew over the country. Because of this, the United States is a free nation. A people that defied the mastery of the world to achieve their independence, and was as Washington said: "a free, independent, and unalienable right of man." Her national and democratic institutions are preserved through a free and a great national sin, and the while her commercial and industrial life has grown in marvelous proportion, her love of freedom has grown apace.

As we follow the stream of her history, we can see her providential purpose. The United States is a free nation. A people that defied the mastery of the world to achieve their independence, and was as Washington said: "a free, independent, and unalienable right of man." Her national and democratic institutions are preserved through a free and a great national sin, and the while her commercial and industrial life has grown in marvelous proportion, her love of freedom has grown apace.

We have not been guilty of intriguing in the affairs of Europe. We have no entangling alliances with European nations. We have no colonial policies or imperialistic designs to promote. We have a clean slate and clean hands. America stands forth today, in the eyes of the world, as a nation of peace and good will. We have the best interests of mankind everywhere. Said Madame de Staël to an American: "You are the advance guard of the human race, you have the future of the world. To America have come the oppressed of many nations and found shelter under the protection of her shield and demonstrated to the world that men of different races and political ideals may live happily together in democracy."

Whatever were the fundamental historical causes that precipitated the world war and the stakes fought for I do not know, and I prefer to leave that to the calm reflection and impartial judgement of the historian, and hope he will have access to the archives of the foreign offices, but this I do know that America's entry envisaged the war with ideals of justice and righteousness. For those idealistic boys, how they fought—immortal heroes covering our flag with unfading glory. What other nation is half so fit by tradition, ideals and institutions to act a mediator between nations in the face of their conflicting interests at the peace table? In these days when the great boundaries ies of Europe are being broken up and redistributed according to nationalistic aspirations, the new born nations are looking to America for guidance and support. Small internationalist issues being settled by the sword, Europe continues to tremble ever on the brink of war in the future as in the past? America's answer at least is before the world in the outlined peace program, which departed from the eternal gratitude of humanity. Truly then it may be said of America "Nations that know these shall turn unto them." We have reviewed the past history of our country. The finger of God is plainly seen in our history. We have considered her present position, her world wide opportunities to be of service to mankind. The voice of God speaks with unmistakable clearness through these facts. Does it not plainly tell us he has singled out America for a special mission? In these days of world readjustment, it is very plain that in America, is centered the hopes of a world made safe for democracy. Her great task then is to realize this destiny upon us. Here then is a nation reserved for a magnificent destiny whose mission we may thwart, if through folly and selfishness we fail to read again the signs of the times.

And now a word and I am done. Let us rise to the consciousness of our manifest destiny. But we must stand and wait and wait in a spirit of humility and self-abasement. Only so can we realize God's goodness and the greatness of His gifts. God is no respecter of nations. If we forget God as Israel did, she will be abandoned. So let us try and individualize this idea—the destiny of this nation—let us make it the object of our prayer and labor and the goal of our faith and workers in realizing His purpose with us. And that consciousness shall be to us as it was to Israel, a source of strength and inspiration.

Home Talent Play Success—Evansville, Nov. 29.—The play "The Law," presented by the Evansville players at Magee's Opera house Tuesday and Wednesday evening was a great success. The play was witnessed by large houses both evenings and that fact, in no other, demonstrated the appreciation of the people of this vicinity. The play was a strong one, and required talent and ability to produce it. The cast included nineteen characters and was headed by Mrs. F. J. Dunn, Miss Ruth Kuntz and Messrs. Earl Pollock, Bert Holmes, Paul Patten, Spencer Patten and J. E. Waddell, representing the leading characters. The work was exceptionally well done. A good sum was realized by the W. R. C. and for the players.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ENJOYS QUIET HOLIDAY

First Time in Many Years That Municipality Might Have Been the Heavy Fines After A Holiday.

It might have been the heavy fines imposed by Judge Maxfield or it might have been the inclement weather or but nevertheless the police department enjoyed a very quiet Thanksgiving and only a few drunks were taken into custody. These were released by Chief Champion this morning when they satisfied him that they were not common drinkers and that they had never been arrested before. It is the first time in several years that the municipal court has been idle on the day after Thanksgiving.

It was an unusually quiet day in Janesville and although the streets were crowded during the afternoon and evening everything was orderly and no disturbances were reported. Chief Champion instructed his men to take into custody all men from dry towns who were in a noisy condition and who were known to the local police. However, very few of them made their appearance in the city yesterday and the question of the weather or the weather or the heavy fines imposed by Judge Maxfield.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Nov. 29.—A very pretty wedding occurred last evening at the St. John's Lutheran church when Miss Edith Schlechting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schlechting, was united in matrimony to Fred William Schultz of the 141st depot brigade of Camp Grant. At seven o'clock the bride couple proceeded to the altar attended by Miss Emily Vesian and Private Fred Dallman of the mounted police at Camp Grant. Little Misses Allen Schultz and Norma Gessner acted as flower girls and strewn the bridal path with roses. Prof. Strussen played Mendelssohn's wedding march and Rev. J. C. Spillman officiated. The church was neatly decorated for the occasion and the decorations at the arch were pink roses and green with an American flag hung from the top of the arch. The bride was attired in white satin, wore a veil and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. The groom was attired in his military uniform. From the church the couple proceeded to the home of the bride's parents where a wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Schultz left for Chicago last evening where they will spend a short honeymoon before the groom reports for duty at Camp Grant. Both Mr. and Mrs. Schultz are hosts and friends in this locality who extend congratulations.

Y. M. C. A. MUST HAVE MORE BEDS

Returning Soldiers Fill Dormitory—Many Compelled to Sleep on Gymnasium Floor—More Coming.

The Y. M. C. A. needs more cots, mattresses and bed covering. Wednesday night the dormitory was filled to capacity with soldiers from Camp Grant who had to stop in the city enroute to their homes. Many were compelled to sleep on the gymnasium floor. With the announcement that several thousand will be discharged within the next few days, the Y. M. C. A. is going to face the difficult problem of providing lodging.

Many have responded to the appeal of Secretary Beaumont for cots, but more are needed. Those who have cots, mattresses or bed covering are requested to get into immediate touch with the Y. M. C. A. so that arrangements can be made to have deliveries made. The county council of defense has offered to pay for the delivery of the needed articles. Each will be identified so that they can be returned to their owners.

If it is not possible to obtain sufficient cots, mattresses can be placed on the floors of the auditorium and gymnasium so that from one hundred to one hundred and fifty men can be accommodated each night.

Circle No. 7, of the M. E. Church, will hold a Home Baking Sale at Nichols' store, 8. Main St., Saturday morning, beginning at 10:30 A. M.

FOOTVILLE

Footville, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Matt Kennedy and Mrs. Herman Bush were Janesville shoppers Tuesday.

On Friday afternoon of last week, Mrs. Will Kennedy gave a miscellaneous shower at her home for Miss Helen Noonon, whose marriage will take place in the near future. About 25 were in attendance. Refreshments were served. The bride-elect received many beautiful and useful gifts with which to adorn her new home.

On Monday afternoon, at the Catholic church this service of confirmation was given to a class of 23, among them being four converts. The services were conducted by Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee. The Rev. Father McDermott and six other priests were in attendance and assisted in the services.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mattice are in receipt of a letter from their son Paul, saying he was well at the time of writing.

Sol. Strang and wife of Janesville, were in town today.

It will be remembered that early in the summer when there came urgent requests for help and money to carry on the work of the Red Cross, that the young ladies of the condenser force, being unable to give of their time, set about to devise some method by which they might aid that organization, consequently they conceived the idea of making a patchwork quilt, each one of the girls contributing her share of the funds with which to purchase material.

This money was turned over to Mrs. Walter Honeysett who purchased the material and did much of the cutting of the blocks which were placed by the girls in the block.

Together, the girls canvassed the town for names to be placed on the quilt. No name to be placed there for less than 25 cents. Many gave more than the required amount. Last week, the girls turned over their quilt to the local Red Cross together with $114.36 names appeared on the quilt. Much credit is due Miss Hazel Hastings and mother, Mrs. Walter Honeysett, for their part in the affair, as they gave of their time and canvassed the condenser force for the quilt, and the local organization wish to thank them for service rendered. They also wish to express thanks to Mr. Talbot, who so generously donated his car for their use in gathering the names. The young ladies of the condenser are to be complimented for the part each has taken. Thanks is given to every one who has made it possible to acquire this sum of money to be used in a worthy cause. The quilt, the property of the Red Cross, will be disposed of in a manner to be decided later.

The Grove Cemetery Association will meet, Saturday afternoon at the Grove church.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Berryman were in Janesville on Tuesday.

On Wednesday morning, the marriage of Miss Helen Noonon of Footville, and Scott Harris of Orfordville, was solemnized at the Catholic church. Rev. Father McDermott of Evansville officiated.

RESTLESS DAYS.
These are restless days for the soldier boys now in the various training camps in this country. They feel that the necessity which called them into the service is over and they are most anxious to receive their discharge and return to civilian life. One student at a training school stated to friends last evening: "We drill two hours a day now, because we have to, but might as well as attend to our business, except perhaps to look in 'What the War'." If this spirit pervades in the schools transformed into military colleges, it is better the boys be demobilized and sent home as quickly as possible. In the various camps the same spirit prevails. One officer from Camp Grant stated he had the hardest work possible to keep his men in line and he would be glad when their discharge orders arrived. As long as the war actually lasted and there was a chance for foreign service there was no lack of interest, but now that this is past it is hard work to keep them at work and they are blue and discouraged. The demobilization must be slow, but it will work wonders when it is completed and these men are back in civilian life again.

THANKSGIVING INDEED.
Even if the turkey was missing on many a family table Thursday, the sentiment of the whole day's celebration was one of thanksgiving. As one divine in his sermon stated: "We were on God's side from the moment we entered the struggle to make this world safe for democracy. In April of 1917, today we give thanks for the great blessings this lasting peace will bring to us. Never has a 'Thanksgiving' meant more to the people of the United States than it did this year. In every proclamation calling for the observance of the day, the tone of reverence for the supreme deity can be observed more pronounced than ever before. Here in Janesville the services of the various churches were well attended and in fact of being a day of merry-making and roistering, the sentiment expressed was one of true thanksgiving for the great and lasting peace and the cessation of hostilities. In the various training camps and with the troops in Europe our boys were fastidiously and fed, but without there was that spirit of thanks. True, it is a memorable occasion.

MELTING POT.
After the war we must find some better means for Americanizing aliens. The time has gone by when it is desirable to have colonies of non-English-speaking people, reading newspapers in a foreign tongue, and giving no conception of what American life means. Our people have always wanted these foreign colonies Americanized but they were never willing to pay the bill. A thorough system of night schools would do a lot towards it, but money for this purpose comes hard from the taxpayers. The Federal Government spends to educate our children, we put out but one to educate the alien. Yet his vote counts just as much as our child's. If we are forced to go to war, we need his whole-hearted support. Not merely must we provide such instruction, but the alien who expects to get the advantages of our country must be willing to fit himself to live in it.

COLLECTING THE DAMAGE.
There is a general agreement that Germany at least must be made to pay for the physical damage she has done, for the wrecked dwellings and business buildings, the looted factories and the forced loans exacted from conquered cities. But the question here that vast amount shall be collected, is not an easy one to handle. It was recently stated that the damage done to the property of Belgium alone has been estimated at $8,000,000,000. But as the wealth of Belgium before the war was estimated at only $9,000,000,000, the former figure was probably exaggerated. It would seem, however, as if the physical damage done by Germany would be anywhere from $10,000,000,000 up, every dollar of which she should pay. Germany's stock of gold and silver coin before the war was not probably in excess of $1,000,000,000. Her paper money could not be accepted in payment of an indemnity. The promise of the German government to pay is not worth much. Neither would German bonds be a satisfactory form of payment. The world has no confidence in the good faith of any government that Germany may create. A considerable sum might be obtained by requiring the German people to bring in all their gold and silver ornaments. But that would come nowhere near paying the indemnity. Some authorities suggest that our armies take over the German custom houses and collect pay through them. But as the Germans will not be able to buy much foreign merchandise for years, the revenues of these custom houses may not amount to much. It would seem likely that this indemnity would have to be collected largely through the labor of the Germans themselves. Let them work out their debt by rebuilding the cities they have leveled to the ground. They will force it into their bones heads that they can not do acts of wanton destruction without having to pay for them in their own sweat and tears.

GERMAN AUTOCRACY.
One of the absolutely absurd statements of the defeated Huns is that of the German admiral who protested against the order that the German flag should not be displayed on the interned German vessels now in an English port. For heaven's sake, do they not realize that they are beaten and badly beaten, and deserve no consideration beyond that which the law allows, or do they still think they can continue to boss the universe by the old plea of "Me and Gott?"

NO CENSORSHIP.
It is refreshing to have George Croel assure the American public that there will be no press censorship of the peace deliberations which President Wilson will attend in Paris. Maybe George has obtained the idea some way that he is bigger than the combined American press, that did more to win the war by devoting columns of space to exploiting government needs and necessities. Any way we are glad that there is to be no press censorship.

The people who worry for fear the soldiers will be idle, may be the same ones who won't co-operate in any scheme to lend money on farm land so they can go into agriculture.

Some of the farmers that complain that they can't get their crops to market, are the same ones that always kicked on bond issues for good roads.

Anxious inquirer wants to know what will be done with all our munition plants now? Well they will be mighty useful, for one thing, to show to emissaries of hostile nations that come nosing around here.

Wheat substitutes no longer being required, are all at liberty to eat bread with the most nourishing part left out if we want to.

Some of the people who couldn't be spared from their business to serve in the army, will soon be taking long tours to inspect the ruins.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON
MY HOSIERY.

The hours I've looked for thee, my socks,
A string of vain regrets to me;
I count you over every one has holes,
My hosiery, my hosiery.

Back to a hole, yet never darned,
To find a hole, in absence wrung,
I count my socks into one and,
No whole one there among.

Oh, memories that bless and burn,
Now that war knitting's on the rocks;
Perhaps my wife, you will at last return,
To darn my socks, sweetheart, to darn my socks.

The Dutch people now seem determined to knock the Wilhelm out of Wilhelmia.

CONCERNING SLEEP.
"Where is Fritz?" queries Albert C. Jones, of the 140th infantry, 35th division, and he drops forthwith into rhyme in the following fashion: I've slept in cradle and I've slept in arms when I was a baby safe from alarms; I've slept on the prairie, shooting the geese, and slept in the bush, hunting the moose; I've slept in a church, with a cricket in my neck; I've slept in wide fields under the stars, and I've slept on trains in ancient box cars; I've slept in beds of purple and gold, and slept in flinders in mud and in cold; I've slept in a dugout with rat and with mouse, and in France I have slept in a fairly good house; I've slept in a barn in an empty horse stall, and I've slept in old sheds on no bed at all; I've slept in a billet on a floor of hard brick, and I've slept on a stretcher of wire, and I pray that my next sleep will be near a fire. I'm tired of wet and of mud and of cold. Oh, when can I sleep in the old home fold?

What d'ye mean, peace?" asks a neighbor of ours who has four of his wife's relatives living with him.

WHEN FRITZ GETS HOME
What stories Fritz will have to tell, When he gets home in peace to dwell! How proud his patient wife will be To sit within the room while he, A veteran in Prussian language grand, How he cut off a baby's hand! Then adds, with Prussian pride and zest, "I stabbed its mother through the breast."

Imagine Heinie, home from sea, Once more with wife and children three. Telling the tales of every trip And picturing each sinking ship. "Once," he will say, "we found about Nine women in an open boat, And just for practice and for fun We shelled them with our forward gun."

Will Oscar say: "My little child, Your father was a demon wild, He and his three companions bad Once overtook a British lad And, just because he wouldn't sell His honor and refused to tell, How many troops were on the Marne, We nailed his body to a barn."

Women of Prussia, when your men Come marching home to you again, Your little ones you should forbid To ask their fathers what they did. To hear it, though you loved them much, Their very hands you'd shrink to touch. Speak not of war to them, for fear They'll tell of things unfit to hear.

FORMER MINISTER HAS MORE HUN PROPOGANDA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Copenhagen, Nov. 29.—Vienna newspapers publish a letter from Count Czernin, former Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, explaining an alleged American peace offer December, 1917. He says it was one of many cases in which unauthorized private individuals tried to acquire the return of peace. In this particular case he says, a manufacturer made overtures but was unable to prove that he was accredited by the American or any other government.

UNION SERVICE WAS MOST OPTIMISTIC ONE

Gratitude for benefits of the past year, and cheerful optimism for the future, seemed to be the prevailing sentiment expressed at the union Thanksgiving service held at the Congregational church on last evening. It was the first time since the outbreak of the war that the members of the city were seated amicably together, was passed on by the composite choir from the different churches, and was reflected on the faces of the very large audience gathered at the meeting.

The speaker of the evening, Rev. P. F. Lewis was in his happiest vein and preached a strong, vigorous, sermon, appropriate to the occasion, taking as his text, the first message sent over the Atlantic cable "What Hath God Wrought."

"This topic," he said, "was treated in relation to the achievements of our own nation, the great republic of the west."

First he pointed out the wonderful progress made in this country in material wealth, so that we were able not only to feed ourselves, but all Europe, during the last few years of the war, and he said our resources were so vast, that all the teeming millions of the nation could be fed and clothed within the domain of the one state of Texas, if necessity arose.

Another wonderful thing happening within the nation, was the coming of a new race, foreign and component nationalities which were flung together in the melting pot. "One of the greatest problems of the times," he contended, "was that of assimilating these different races in a united nation, who could live amicably together."

"The next wonderful thing which God had wrought in this nation, was the upbuilding of the soul. The nation," he said, "had found its soul. This was the practical genius of the nation, combined with the idealism of religion."

He emphasized the thought that this "was the greatest thing to be thankful for in winning the war."

He also laid stress on the thought that some of the things found necessary for emergency, in winning the war must be made a fixed policy in the nation. Those he mentioned were: habits of thrift and self sacrifice in living, growing and teaching work in community and church affairs.

In closing, he called especial attention to the opportunity just now afforded, the nation, and the world, of building a wonderful new structure on the wreck of the old, and that this great republic of the west, might in that way become a missionary nation for all the peoples of the earth.

A double quartette men's choir sang the hymns under the direction of Prof. Taylor, and a quartette sang two selections, "Sail On," and "Bless our President." The quartette was made up of A. Olsen from the Methodist, P. Hammarlund from the Lutheran and P. Sadler from the Christian church.

Rev. Clarke Cummings gave the invocation, Rev. R. C. Pierson gave the prayer. Commandant Connors occupied a seat of honor at the altar. Rev. A. Melrose presided at the exercises and pronounced the benediction.

Optimistic Thought.

No gain is so certain as that which is saved from the economical use of what we have.

Plant Closed.

MANITOWOC—The Burger Boat Building company plant has been closed down temporarily, pending a decision by the government as to the extent of completion on contracts which the company holds. The employees of the company, numbering nearly 200, were told on Monday that the yards would not be open. Discontinuance of work on government contracts are said to have been issued also to yards at Sturgeon Bay, Green Bay and Marinette City. The Burger yards have contracts for a number of 100 foot tugs for the government and some of the boats are under construction and probably will be completed as soon as the department at Washington adjusts matters. The Burger yards are expected to reopen in a few days and two of the four boats under way likely will be finished.

Cuddle Up

In the sweetest smelling sheets you ever put on your bed. Close your eyes—the fragrance of new mown hay. The purity and sweetness of absolute cleanliness. There's nothing else like the delightful odor of fresh clean linen—as you cuddle up in the sheets that GRANDMA washed. GRANDMA is a marvelous powdered soap. Powdered for easy cutting, chipping and washing of bed soap. The millions of big, bursting, bubbling suds surge through the clothes and drive out every atom of dirt. Twice the cleaning power with half the effort and at less cost.

Around the State

Funeral Service.
Neenan--Neenan will hold funeral services over the first of her sons who died from wounds received in action in France, Saturday last at the General Hospital in New York City, after he had made a valiant fight for life with two paralyzed limbs and machine gun bullets in his spine, will be buried here with military funeral. The state guards will have charge.
Prominent Man Dies.
MANITOWOC--William H. Van der Grint, former Wisconsin superintendent of the Milwaukee division of the Lake Shore railway and later general agent for the Wisconsin Central lines, died from an attack of heart failure while seated at his breakfast table and conversing with his family. Mr. Vandergrint was 73 years old. He came to Wisconsin from Ohio in 1875, establishing a residence at Appleton where he became division superintendent of the old Lake Shore and Western railroad. At the time of his death he was in the government employ at the shipyards. His wife and three children survive.
Friend Injured.
MADISON--Rev. Edward J. Meyer, recently appointed to succeed the late Rev. A. V. Mueller of Holy Redeemer church, was injured last week in an auto accident. Several ribs were fractured and several bruises were received. He is now stationed at Appleton and upon recovery will assume his pastorate in this city.

ARTHUR JAMES PRATT INDICTED BY JURY

Erstwhile Federal Officer Indicted By Federal Grand Jury at La Crosse For Impersonating Federal Officer.
Arthur James Pratt erstwhile federal officer who was arrested in this city about three months ago for impersonating federal officers was indicted last week by the Federal Grand Jury at La Crosse and is held at the Janesville County Jail in Madison awaiting trial. Pratt posed as a federal officer in several ways and it is alleged that he secured money from several Janesville women on the pretext that he was an officer of the Department of Justice. Pratt was first arrested at Spring when the carnival company was showing in Spring Brook. It was there that he started his career as a federal officer.

JANESVILLE ROOTERS ATTEND BELOIT GAME

Over two hundred Janesville football rooters accompanied the school football team this afternoon to Beloit. Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors, all were in attendance confident of an easy victory over Beloit. The only draw back with which the local element of the field was the absence of Root, star half, who was unable to play the game because of a dislocated leg. His place will be taken by McDermott, substitute half. Otherwise from this one change the team's line up was practically unchanged.

Immediately after the game between the first teams, the second teams of the two schools will play. The strength of Janesville's line and back-up, save from the work it has done in scrimmage with the first squad, in which they displayed good football. Several men who have played on the first team, but who are disqualified for various reasons played. The first game of the afternoon began promptly at 1:30, while the second game of the afternoon began at 2:30. The teams started immediately afterwards. A number of Janesville boys who attended the game will take the train for Racine where they will attend the Older Boys conference. Coach Craig's opening choice was as follows: center, Scobie; right guard, Fuchs, right tackle, Dugan; right end, Nuzum; left guard, Gervin; left tackle, Black; end, Allen; quarterback, Roy; right half, McDermott; left half, Powers; fullback, Sprackling.

ference at the M. E. church.
Geo. W. Yahn, Sr., has returned from a hunting trip in Northern Wisconsin. Mr. Yahn succeeded, as usual in bagging a large deer.

Mr. and Mrs. Horce, Wilkins of 439 5th avenue entertained at a family dinner Thanksgiving day. Covers were laid for seven. The guests from away were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. ## Short Time Investments

Many of our patrons are constant buyers of Certificates of Deposit. They like them because they can invest any amount at any time and get their money back for other purposes when they want it back. And the Certificate of Deposit pays a fairly good profit—better than other investments when you consider the other advantages. This is a good place to put money for a short time. We will explain fully if you are interested.

100% PURITY QUALITY EXCELLENCE

No Waste In Milk---Use More of It!

Milk is a drink that's always palatable and refreshing any hour in the day. More people ought to substitute a glass of pure milk for the stimulants that undermine health.

There's no waste in milk. It's 100% Food. Unexcelled as a beverage, indispensable in baking and cooking, the ideal food for children and grown-ups.

Use more milk--The Food Without Waste--and less of the expensive, hard-to-digest, heavy foods that poison the system with indigestible matter.

Our milk is rigidly inspected, pasteurized, protected from contamination. It's the safest, finest milk for family use. Guaranteed pure.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fifteen years old. I work and am my own living. I also help about the house. I am going with my brother's girl's brother. He works at the same place as my brother. I never go any place with him unless my brother and his sister are with us. I have been to his house many times and have met his mother.

My mother wants me to go with him, but father objects. My father often says hard things toward me which nearly break my heart. He gives hints that I am not wanted at home and he won't let me go to live with my married brother. What shall I do? Do you think he can make me give up this boy?

BLUE EYES.

Ignore the unkind remarks your father makes and live at home for your mother's sake. He does not mean what he says or he would let you go to live with your brother. Try not to displeasure him and let him have his own way as many times as you can.

HEALTH TALKS

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

OLD DOCTOR GALEN ON CHARLEYHORS.

Severe muscular exertion is sometimes accompanied by minute ruptures of the cell walls of muscle fibres, with a small hemorrhage into the injured muscle, leaving a persistent soreness for weeks. Occasionally the entire muscle is torn from its attachment to bone or tendon in a single violent effort. The trainer calls such an injury "charleyhorse." The pump can be felt at the injured point and sometimes it can be seen. When it disappears after a month or so a small scar is left at the point of injury, and this scar in the muscle may impair its function so that there is a permanent weakness. In runners such an injury of the hamstrings is known as "pulling the hamstrings." In horseback riders the muscles on the inside of the thigh, which draw the thighs against the saddle or the horse's flanks, are the ones likely to be so injured. Ball players often injure the deltoid muscle or other muscles about the shoulder and shoulderblade. One of the foremost authorities on charleyhorses was Galen, who wrote, in 200 A. D., as follows:

"If anyone immediately after undressing proceed to the more violent movements before he has softened the whole body and thinned the excretions and opened the pores, he incurs the danger of breaking or spraining some of the solid parts, but if beforehand you gradually warm and soften the solids and thin the fluids and expand the pores, the danger of exercising will run no danger of breaking any part."

Galen was an old one, but note particularly that he didn't believe in taking cold. This "warm-up" principle is advised for the purpose of getting the muscle gradually into action and avoiding the sudden strain that is likely to cause small tears in the muscle fibres. If you did not tell the pitcher how careful he must be to keep the arm and shoulder covered with a sweater in order not to take cold in it. He warned him to warm it up gradually.

The other cause of muscle soreness is the accumulation of irritating waste matter in the muscle, waste produced by the combustion of material to supply the necessary energy for muscle action. It is a great mistake of trainers and some athletes assuming that massage is the best remedy for this soreness or larpness. It is not. Mild muscle work is the best remedy. Let the muscle massage itself. The waste matter or fatigue poisons must be carried off by the circulation, and nothing helps this so much as mild muscle activity an hour or two after the severe effort.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Cocoa Not Good for Young Children
Is cocoa a wholesome beverage for young children? I have always understood it to be very nourishing. (Mrs. A. B. D.)

Answer—Cocoa prepared for the table is much more nourishing than tea or coffee as a whole. It is practically identical with the caffeine of coffee and the caffeine of tea in effect—a stimulant to the cerebrum, the kidneys and the heart. Young children need no stimulation. Milk is the child's best beverage. Cocoa, tea and coffee should not be given until the child is at least 13 years old and then only in small quantities.

Souffles in Young Infant
I would like to know what you would give to a child who is eight months old and it is not a cold because he has it all the time. (Mrs. A. B. D.)

Answer—Such a condition is often a sign of constitutional disease requiring the careful investigation of your physician.

Side Talks
—BY—RUTH CAMERON

Why does it exasperate us to have people think other people are better than they really are?

When I was a girl in college I had a friend who was an excellent student. She seemed to me a being wonderful and perfect beyond all experience. The thought of her was an inspiration to me. A few minutes of conversation with her was an event. Surely that admiration did no one any harm, and gave me a kind of happiness and perhaps helped me somewhat in my studies.

My mind went back to this old experience the other day, when I found myself filled with somewhat the same exasperation. I have an acquaintance who is a girl with fine capabilities of which she might make much. But an unfortunate association with a girl whose chief ambition is to have good looking clothes and plenty of spending-money, and spend their time rushing about hither and yon, filling up any vacant spaces with gossip or seances at the telephone, spoiled her. She is, to my mind, extremely selfish and frivolous, and I know her to be deceitful.

Generous Perhaps, But Unselfish Never.
Now her mother, strange as it may seem, fairly adores the girl. She has two daughters, but T. is the favorite. I never see her that she does not tell me how brilliant T. is, and how unselfish (generous in some ways she may be, but unselfish never) and how much from things she has not the least idea of T.'s facile deceitfulness. I never hear this woman talk without having the most ungodly itch inside of me to tell her some of the things about T. that I know and she doesn't. (No, I've never yielded, and I don't think I ever shall; but I am not a hypocrite even to have wanted to.)

We Want to Find Perfection.
There is something fine in the heart of man that is always longingly seeking for perfection, and ever and anon rejoicing in the belief that it has found it.

And there is something ugly in the heart of man that is ever and anon proving that belief false—a kind of jealousy, I suspect, that fancies itself belittled by the exaggeration of another's virtues.

True, the hour of disillusionment is sure to come some time; but surely there is not so much happiness in the world that one should hasten this dread hour by a single moment.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Reilly will answer in this column all questions on etiquette)

When sending silver to a bride it is best not to have it marked, as she may receive it before the wedding and exchange some pieces for others. She may also have a preference as to the style in which her silver is engraved.

Miss L. I. You should wait until the young man's invitation is confirmed by his mother. She should be the one to extend the invitation to spend the week-end at her home.

Frances: The fact that he also calls on other girls does not necessarily mean that he does not regard you highly.

No sugar is required—simply milk and a dash of salt.

seasonings and the crab meat; reheat carefully, but do not boil. Serve at once.
Soup a la Reine—One leftover roast chicken, two quarts water, one teaspoon cornstarch, three-quarters cup boiled rice, one-half cup cream, salt and pepper to taste. Cut all the meat from the carcass of the chicken and chop very fine. Put the bones in the water and simmer for two hours. Remove the bones and thicken with the cornstarch made smooth with a little cold water. Add the chicken and rice, and when very soft rub through a coarse strainer. Bring to the boiling point again, add the cream and season to taste.

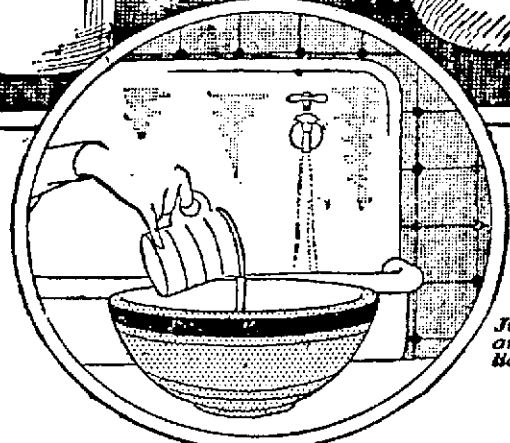

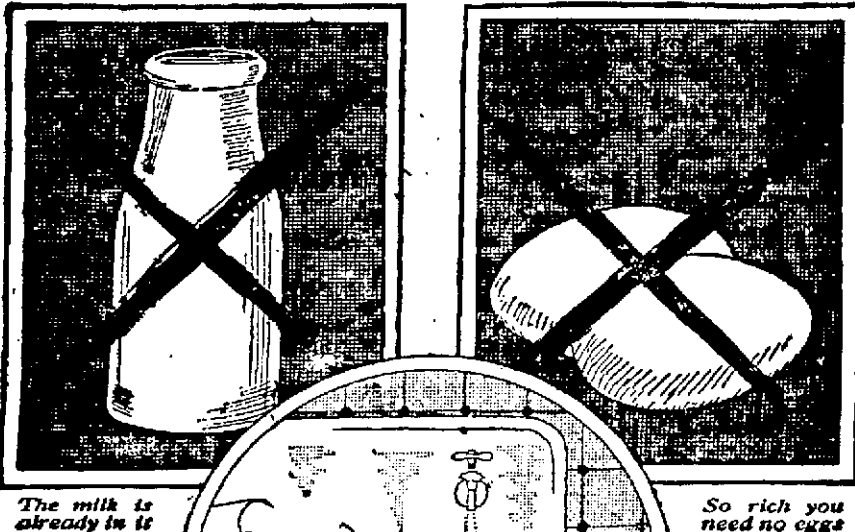

Cream of Tomato Soup—One quart fresh or canned tomatoes, pinch of soda, three tablespoons butter, one quart milk, three tablespoons cornstarch, salt and pepper to taste. Make a sauce of the butter, cornstarch and milk, and season well. Heat the tomatoes and strain, adding a bit of soda. When both sauce and potatoes are very hot pour the tomatoes into the white sauce and serve quickly. Serve with croutons.

String Bean Soup—Two quarts string beans, one-quarter cup flour, one-quarter cup (or less) of fat, one small slice of onion, salt, pepper, skim milk enough to make two quarts of soup. Cook beans in as little water as possible, drain and rub through a sieve. Add the bean liquor and milk enough to make two quarts. Thicken as usual.

THE TABLE.
Kedgeree—One-half cup rice steamed; one cup cooked haddock, one hard-boiled egg, one small onion. Cook the rice and mix while hot with the haddock broken in flakes, the egg chopped and the onion grated. Add milk or stock, if needed, and heat all together in double boiler.

Roiled Cookies—One-half cup of syrup, one-half cup of lard or substitute, one egg, one and one-half cups rolled oats, two cups of flour, a pinch of salt, one-half cup chopped raisins, one-half teaspoon of soda, round measure; heat the egg, add the syrup, then the shortening; mix well, then add the rolled oats dry, then the flour and raisins; dissolve soda in one tablespoon of boiling water, then stir till thick, then mix with hands and roll out, cut with cookie cutter, bake on the upturned bottom of bread pan, add pinch of salt before mixing. This recipe can be doubled for large family.

Bread Crumb Pancakes—One pint milk, one and one-half cups crumbs, one tablespoon butter substitute, one cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one egg. Soak milk, pour over crumbs and add shortening the previous evening; in the morning add flour, baking powder and well beaten egg; bake slowly on griddle.

How the perfect pancake formula was worked out

Years ago the Aunt Jemima people realized that when a woman mixes pancakes herself she could never be sure how they would turn out. Some days they might be good—but other days, when she thought she had done everything just the same—the cakes would turn out flat, tough and soggy.

To give every woman a way of making cakes that always come out wonderfully—always light and fluffy and tender—Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour was created.

The treasured recipe of a famous Southern cook was adopted as the basis of the formula. Long study was put in perfecting it. Especially ground and blended flours were used—flours that you could not buy in a store. And finally, since good pancakes need sweet milk, that was added, too (in powdered form).

No wonder Aunt Jemima Pancakes have such an unusually delicious flavor—no wonder 120 million Aunt Jemima breakfasts were served last year!

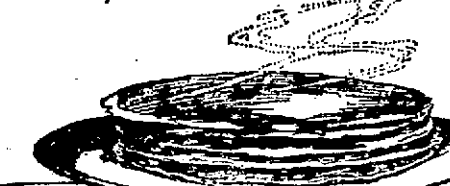

So quick and easy—and so nourishing

Aunt Jemima Pancakes have just the nutritious, wholesome elements that your family needs—their gluten percentage is unusually high. They have the food value that gives youngsters strong bodies and plump, rosy cheeks.

Have Aunt Jemima Pancakes tomorrow—and some other day, have the Buckwheat Cakes (Aunt Jemima Buckwheat Flour comes in the yellow package). Try waffles and muffins made with the Pancake Flour, too, they're delicious. Read on any Aunt Jemima box how to get the famous Rag Dolls. Aunt Jemima Mills Company, St. Joseph, Missouri.

Richer because of the milk that's in it!

Sweet milk, powdered and mixed in the flour gives Aunt Jemima Pancakes the flavor that has made them America's favorite breakfast. You need add nothing but water to have rich, full-flavored cakes.

TROCO

Made from the White Meat of Coconuts

Here is the final solution of the butter problem—offered you in TROCO—the new-day product. It tastes like fine creamery butter. But it is made from the white meat of the COCONUT, churned with pasteurized milk.

This new product, with its delicacy and flavor, appeals especially to butter users who rebel at the present price.

It is nutritious and easily digested. Like butter, it supplies fuel for the body, to keep up energy.

An Appealing Food

While old laws compel us to label TROCO as oleomargarine, the two products have no relation. TROCO contains no beef or hog fats. The white meat of coconut, churned with fresh pasteurized milk, are the appetizing ingredients.

A Big Saving in Price

We want you to judge TROCO entirely on a quality basis, and not from the standpoint of price.

Compare it with the very best butter that you can buy. Let flavor be the sole and only judge. Forget that it saves you 20 to 30 cents a pound.

TROCO, used as shortening, goes farther than butter. This will appeal to economical cooks who want results without waste.

Get your first pound today and give it an all-round trial. A capsule of vegetable coloring supplied on request by your dealer.

NOTICE—Under the law, all butter substitutes must be branded Oleomargarine. That TROCO was branded before the law was passed, so the color of all butter substitutes must also be yellow. So the color of TROCO comes in a capsule. Add it yourself, as you do with oleomargarine.

FIVE FRIDAYS

By FRANK R. ADAMS

I could see that Ned Blaney was going to have the time of his life immediately after he found himself hitched more or less for life to this volatile young person. Vida was not one of those who would pass by a luring pasture lot simply because she was in harness.

The rest of us went into the house. As we came in the telephone was ringing. Asking Lucille's permission, I answered it.

"Hello," said a male voice, speaking with staccato sharpness. "May I speak to Mr. Tipton S. Blair?"

I put my hand over the mouthpiece and turned around. Lucille had gone upstairs, but Bopp was gazing idly out of the window.

"Is Mr. Blair still there in the yard?" I asked him.

"No, he went off down the bench with Miss Dunmore."

"Hello!" I spoke again into the telephone. "Mr. Blair was here a moment ago, but he has just gone for a walk with a young lady."

"Impossible!" The voice at the other end shot that emphatically at me.

"It's so."

"What if he is? This one is going to convert him."

"Humph. She can't do it. Who is she?"

"Her name is Miss Vida Dunmore."

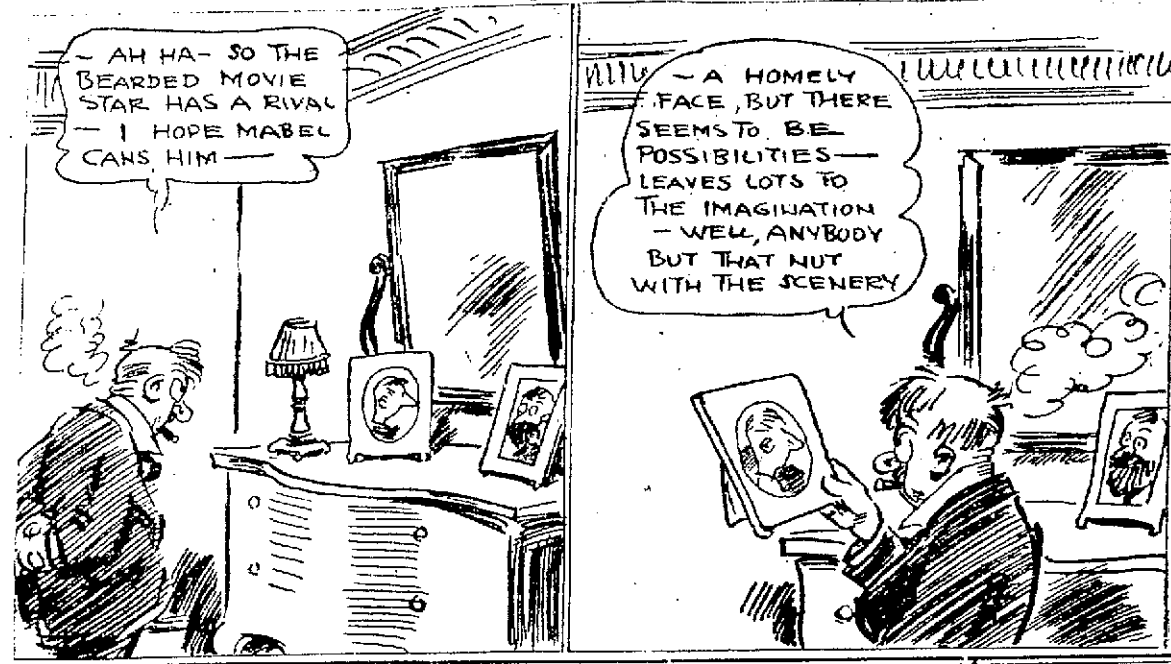

"Vida Dunmore there?"

"Certainly."

"Thank heaven!" he ejaculated fervently. "I've been waiting for hours for her to get here. How does she come to be there?"

I explained to the young man, who proved to be Ned Blaney, as I had already suspected, all about the wreck of the Mary Bell and the casting ashore of her passengers.

"Thanks very much," said Blaney, with considerable relief in his voice. "I'll come right over after her. Don't petey dink—THERE'S A REASON FOR EVERYTHING—EVEN A BEARD.

When I came downstairs I saw Mopp go through the yard, looking under every bush and into every gully. I went out to tell him that Mrs. Green was located.

He stopped when he saw me. "I see Clair has cut you out with your actress friend," he said. "I saw them arm in arm on the beach a minute ago. There's no use talking, Mopp. You can't seem to hold a girl's attention long enough to slip a ring on her. Why don't you try advertising in one of those matrimonial papers?"

I made no answer, but turned around abruptly and went back to the house. I was angry enough myself to let him hunt until the crack of doom before I would tell him that Mrs. Green was found.

When I entered the house the telephone was ringing again. I took off the receiver.

"Hello!" I said.

"Hello!" said a masculine voice. "I am a newspaper man, representing the Hamman syndicate. I understand that you had an earthquake over there this morning and that Mrs. Green, the wife of the president of the First National bank, made her escape in an aeroplane dressed in a spangled red ball gown. I want to know if I have these facts absolutely correct before I—"

I carefully lowered the receiver until it hung suspended from the wires and tiptoed away from the telephone, letting him talk to the empty air.

The story was out.

"No, I won't," I interposed a third voice, the sweetly professional one of the operator. "Talk all you want to. There isn't anybody waiting for the line."

"I suppose I must have got into the boat when the earthquake commenced," persisted Mrs. Green, "but how did I get on the decoiled red dress? I have not worn that dress for ten years."

I told her that we would have to wait until she got home to explain a number of things. "Lucille will be very glad to know that you are safe," I added casually as if she had just gone over to a neighbor's, hoping to deceive central. "She was afraid you might get wet."

"Did Lucille know I was going?" inquired the startled Mrs. Green, who apparently did not catch on to my acting.

"No, not until after you had started," I said, skirting the edge of the truth. "She will be very glad to hear that you are all right. I'll tell her as soon as she wakes up. She is resting now."

"Sleeping? Now? What for?"

"Why?" I explained, "she was up all night."

"What? And all alone on that island with you two young fellows and no chaperon?"

"Oh, no," I hastened to reassure her and central. "Not alone with us! There are a lot of people here—six or seven. I assure you."

"Having a convention of earthquake sufferers, I suppose," Mrs. Green surmised caustically. "What sort of people are they?"

"Oh, very nice people," I answered promptly. "One of them is a lady."

"How do you know she is a lady?" inquired Mrs. Green. "Just because she happened to be wearing skirts when she arrived?"

"Oh, no," I said hastily. "How could I tell this elderly, dignified lady that our feminine guest had not worn skirts on her arrival?"

"Humph!" Mrs. Green was not particularly impressed. "The sooner I get back the better. You'll have to send some one over after me because there weren't any cars in the boat."

I wouldn't go out in a rowboat again anyway. Send a big boat or I won't leave here."

"I'll send for you just as soon as I can," I was glad to have the conversation draw to a close. It had been bad enough already, but who could tell what else might come out if we kept on talking? "The storm ought to quiet down soon now. Goodbye for the present."

"Wait a minute. I want to ask"—I am afraid I was guilty of rank discourtesy in hanging up the receiver before I heard her question, but I knew I should be unable to answer it anyway, and I had to have an opportunity to think what it was all about.

First of all, Lucille must be told and an end put to her anxiety. I went upstairs and called "Lucille!"

CHAPTER X. The Clam Hunter.

THERE was no answer, and I stepped to the door of her room, which stood open. She was lying on her bed, dressed, with her head on her arm, sleeping the dead sleep of utter exhaustion. She seemed very small and childish, and her fingers curled adorably, like a baby's. I didn't have the heart to waken her, so I tiptoed out. The news would be just as welcome when she awakened of her own accord, and sleep would do her much good.

Dinner Stories

Congressman Seaborn Ruddenbury of Georgia, gaily smiled when the talk topic dwelt on the lord and master of the domestic ranch. He said he was reminded of little John's visit to the zoo.

While rambling around among the animals with his father one afternoon, so ran the story of the congressman, little Johnny came to a miniature lake on which two swans were swimming.

"Papa," said Johnny, pointing a chubby little finger out over the lake, "is that the father swan or the mother swan?"

"Which one do you mean, Johnny?" asked the old man, glancing in the direction indicated by the boy.

"I mean the one over there," answered Johnny. "The one with all the feathers pecked off his head and isn't allowed to have the biscuit or nothing."

"Yes, my son," promptly replied papa, with just a suspicion of a sigh, "that's the father swan, all right."

In a Y. M. C. A. building at Camp Forrest a bright-faced young soldier leaned against the counter and earnestly inquired, "Have you got any algebra books?"

The secretary, delighted at this manifestation of interest in higher things, scanned the book shelves.

"No, my boy," he replied, "I'm sorry to say that I haven't. I have several arithmetic books, but not a single algebra. Will anything else do?"

"O, give me any good book of adventure," said the boy.

And presently the secretary recovered sufficiently to realize that the soldier wanted a book by Horatio Alger, and selecting "Pluck and Luck, or from Porter to President," he sent the applicant on his way rejoicing.

The Itching and Sting of Blazing, Fiery Eczema

Seems Like the Skin Is on Fire. There is a harrassing discomfort caused by Eczema that almost becomes a torture. The itching is almost unbearable, and the skin seems on fire with the burning irritation. A cure from local applications of salves and ointments is impossible, because such treatment can only allay the pain temporarily. The disease can only be reached by going deep down to its source.

The source of Eczema is in the blood, the disease being caused by an infection which breaks out through the skin. That is why the most satisfactory treatment for all so-called skin diseases is S. S. S., for this remedy so thoroughly cleanses the blood that no impurities can remain. Get a bottle today at any drugstore, and you will see results from the treatment. Relief from Eczema

Don't worry about eczema or other skin troubles. You can have a clear, healthy skin by using a little Zemo, obtained at any drug store for 35c, or extra large bottle at $1.00.

Zemo generally removes pimples, blackheads, blotches, eczema and ringworm and makes the skin clear and healthy. Zemo is a clean, penetrating, antiseptic liquid, neither sticky nor greasy and stains nothing. It is easily applied and costs a mere trifle for each application. It is always dependable.

AGED RESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

"I was at my work, my limbs became numb, I got dizzy and faint, my eyes seemed stopped up. I had been troubled with gas on my stomach and severe indigestion after meals. Doctors failed to help me. One dose of Maxer's Wonderful Remedy, recommended by the corner druggist, proved a life-saver to me. I am continuing with it with splendid results. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. L. Baker, Druggist."

FEEL MISERABLE FROM THAT COLD?

Colds and coughs are quickly relieved by Dr. King's New Discovery.

Nobody should feel "perfectly miserable" from a cold, cough or bronchial attack for very long. For it takes only a little while to relieve it and get back on the road to recovery when Dr. King's New Discovery is faithfully used. It soon loosens the phlegm, relieves irritation, soothes the parched, sore throat, brings comfort.

Half a century old and more popular today than ever. 60c and $1.20.

"My wife was pronounced incurable by physicians unless operated (complicated bowel trouble). I began giving Adler-I-Kai and she is improving. I shall continue until she is cured." (Signed) J. H. Underwood, Marion, Ala.

Adler-I-Kai empties BOTH upper and lower bowel, flushing ENTIRE alimentary canal. Removes ALL foul matter which poisons system. Often CURES constipation. Prevents appendicitis. We have sold Adler-I-Kai many years. It is a mixture of buckthorn, cascara, glycerine and nine other simple drugs. Smith Drug Co.

RED BLOODED MEN FIGHTERS

Red blooded men are born leaders in every walk of life and fight intelligently with both brain and muscles. They are always live, alert on their toes and ready for anything that comes their way. There is no need of anyone going along with poor health or weak nerves. They know better, they are wise and see to it that their blood has plenty of good iron and their nerves at all times loaded with Phosphates—the nerve food.

A leading doctor says: "Show me a strong, healthy successful man or woman and you can bank on it every line, their bodies are just loaded with Iron and Phosphates." Another prominent physician says: "I have seen many men and women who were faded and nervous when Phosphates were put in their system and vigor in the body, mind and nerves." This same doctor also said, "phosphated iron can fight life's battle at any stage of the game and be a winner every time."

Mr. Run Down man or woman in any stage of life, if you feel all in your nerves are all shot, and life seems like one continual drag and drudgery from day to day, get next to yourself, wake up, take a brace. Lay in a supply of Phosphated Iron and take a new lease on life. You will once again feel like a live one and face the world with the smile that wins. Are you game?

To insure physicians and their patients receiving the genuine Phosphated Iron it has been put up in capsules only, so do not allow dealers to give you tablets or pills. Insist on capsules.

Thirty Feet of Danger

The intestinal canal is an important part of every individual, important every inch of its thirty feet. The upper portion of it is intended for the digestion of food and absorption of its useful portions. But the lower part is concerned with the elimination of waste material.

It is, in other words, the great sewer of the body. The more food eaten, the greater the waste. If a sewer becomes clogged up, its contents stagnate and become more and more dangerous.

Constipation means more than failure to evacuate the bowels regularly and thoroughly. It means stagnation, increased fermentation, putrefaction and germ action. Increased amounts of irritating and poisonous substances are formed. Absorption of these into the blood follows. Self-poisoning results.

Danger, disorder, disease, or even death follow. Pills, purgative mineral waters, castor oil, salts, etc., do not cure constipation or prevent its consequences. They make it worse because they do not only irritate the bowels, but they "wear out" in effect and so must be taken in increasing doses, making constipation a habit.

But the Nujol Treatment for Constipation overcomes constipation by helping Nature re-establish easy, daily, thorough bowel evacuation as "regular as clockwork."

Nujol prevents stagnation and self-poisoning. Nujol forms no habit, except a natural, healthy habit. After Nujol has trained the bowels to act, it can be dispensed with.

Show Thyself a Man

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of Practical Work Course,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Go the way of all the earth: be strong therefore, and show thyself a man.—1 Kings 2:2.

An old man lay dying. Behind him was a checkered and romantic career. In his youth he was a shepherd. He became king of Judah, and upon Saul's death was elected king of Israel as well. His sons Absalom and Adonijah, separately and at different times, tried to wrest his throne from him. At last, however, he had the satisfaction of seeing the son whom he had chosen to succeed him crowned king. As he lay dying he called the young king into his presence, and this is what Solomon heard David, his father, say: "I am going the way of all the earth. Show thyself a man."

Not by Clothes. Solomon must have pondered the meaning of these words, and as we look back over his life it might be wondered if he did not interpret, "Show thyself a man," to mean that he should wear costly and ornamental array. His magnificent clothes made such an impression that our Lord, holding forth a life, said: "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

Strange, is it not, that even in these days, when the realities of life are being borne in upon us as never before, there are folks who act as if they thought clothes instead of character made the man.

You can test this in most any social gathering. Two men enter; one, with hair as black as hell, but dressed like a fashion plate and with the airs of a gentleman; the other, with sterling character, but green and awkward, wears ordinary plain clothes. The first is a center of attraction while the second is unnoticed unless some one, out of pity, keeps him company. I do not say this would be so if the real value of each man was known, but in the absence of such knowledge, is it not true that often we act as if clothes and not character, make the man?

Not by Wealth. It may be Solomon thought his father meant that he should acquire wealth, for he amassed a great fortune and became the richest man of all time. He erected a palatial residence that took thirteen years to build, and had such sumptuous surroundings and so much wealth, that the queen of Sheba, hearing of his glory, came to visit him and when she saw it all, exclaimed: "The half was never told."

How many there are today to whom wealth is an indication of manhood. Let it be said that one is rich, and immediately these people do him honor, as if what he possesses, instead of what he is, makes him a man. It is a bad custom we have of asking how much a man is worth, rather than what is his character. A man may have a good character with dollars, and just as easily, he may have a bad character without them. It is not money, or the want of it, that determines a man's character. It is what he actually is.

Wealth may induce to badness, and so may poverty; neither, however, need be blamed for ruined character, because God will give strength and grace to bear either, if we ask him.

Not by Culture. Possibly Solomon thought that culture makes a man, for we read that he became the wisest of all men. Yet after acquiring understanding in many things, it was he who said, at last: "Trust in the Lord and lean not to thine own understanding."

We should remember that God puts no premium upon ignorance. He expects us to develop and increase in knowledge.

The splendid schools and colleges of our day offer youth great opportunities for development; but should all the culture and learning of the world be acquired, and one know not God and Jesus Christ whom he has sent, he is still ignorant of the greatest and most vital truth—truth that is essential to his character, and without which he lacks the power to build that Christian character which alone can stand the testings of God, and having stood them, endure throughout eternity.

The apostle tells us that "other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." And he says: "If any man build upon this foundation—not learning, not culture, but Christ—he shall receive a reward," provided of course, his building be of such material as will stand the test of fire. And so he adds: "Take heed how ye build thereupon."

Yes, let us take heed how we build thereupon; what kind of Christian characters we erect; but first of all, we need to be definitely sure that we are building upon the only foundation, which is Jesus Christ our Lord. Then as we build our Christian character upon him, may each one of us show himself a man.

Pleasant Fields Of Holy Writ

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.
Fourth Quarter, Lesson IX: Genesis XXXVII 1-36; December 1, 1918.

Golden Text: Hatred stirreth up strife, but love covereth all transgressions. Proverbs X 12.

JACOB'S BROTHERS. In its early days the Atlantic Monthly used to give a dinner occasionally to its distinguished contributors. Long fellow, William Lowell, and Holbrook, at one time, was no lack of attic suit.

Once the question was raised as to which was the best story in literature. Each wrote his choice on a bit of paper. When the tale was made it was found unanimous for the legend of Joseph. It is not improbable that in a wider circle the all but unanimous verdict would be the same. For the delineation of human passions and emotions, quick transformations of fortunes and estates, double plot lazing and interlarding illustrations of many and customs of different countries and rural and urban in each, and finally a climatical denouement, the story of Joseph is not surpassed if approached in the world's literature.

From the thorny and thisty sons of Jacob grapes and figs could not be expected. The extreme cruelty, especially of Simeon and Levi, had shown itself in the case of the Shechemites. All were rude, treacherous, Bedouin. The gentle and pure character of Joseph was a standing rebuke upon them. They were envious of his impending honor; ready to cry as their descendants afterwards did: "We will not have this man to reign over us." They hated their jealousy until it reached the size of murder.

Joseph has come to them on an errand of love from their father, with a long and perilous journey from Hebron to Dothan. There were Bedouins and bears in the way. He had brought them costly viands, if there was to be any criticism of their conduct on his part, direct or indirect, it would be just, and for their real advantage. But they allowed themselves to be moved with envy. Their utter heartlessness is shown in that they could sit down to the very banquet he had brought them, and eat it in sound of his wailing voice.

Anna compassionately refers to the "sins of Joseph." They were pitiful, unparalleled. He was treated with indignity; stripped of his robe of state; tainted with his dreams; cast into a certain dungeon, a prison from which escape was impossible. There, in the mire and clay of a horrible pit, he shivered for want of his cloak. He was a hanged and weary, with no place to rest his head. He was tread on the wine-press of sorrow alone, and of his brothers there was none to help him. At length he is lifted from the pit, but only to suffer a worse fate.

There is an explosive power in a new vice as well as in a new virtue. Murder is ousted by avarice. The sight of the approaching trading carriages suggests the possibility of making merchandise of this obnoxious brother. A moment later they gloat over their two silver shekels apiece, and in a twinkling are ready to the desert depart to ignominious and hopeless servitude.

Naked and under a burning sun, with an iron collar about his neck and a last upon his back, the heir of all the promises departs from the very land he was to have inherited. The prince is metamorphosed into the slave, "Canaan exchanged for Egypt." The human angle all is lost; but "God moves in a mysterious way. His wonders to perform."

The Teacher's Edition tribulation deep the way to glory is," has a remarkable verification in the case of Joseph. Yet it would never have been truly known that he was on the way to glory. The throne must needs be curtailed off, and he see only the servitude, in order that it should be his best discipline. When the tribulation of evil covers at span the trials of the faithful, the faithful brothers are in fine feather over making away with the object of their enmity. They are glad they will see no more. But in a score of years they are fulfilling the dream, and bowing humbly before his blazing throne. The wicked spread themselves like the fig tree, but the righteous are not. Malice is impotent when it rears itself against providence. How soon it was stripped off, and how soon it was replaced without it was just as good and great without it as it was with it. But the cunning is neither father nor son in cunning is sufficient to encourage imitation. Reuben's kindly feeling toward his rival is commendable; but perhaps if he had courageously withstood his brother, it would have been better for one, consciously in the right, would have put him, consciously in the wrong, to flight. . . . Joseph's reason would have been the greatest possible misfortune. For himself to have been reared in Canaan by his fond father would have made a Lilliputian of him. For his nation: Egypt was to be their schoolhouse, and Joseph's captivity was the means of bringing them there. This does not discount the brothers' crime. God made their wrath to praise him, and the excess of it, which would have murdered the heir of the promises, he restrained. . . . A reverse! so it seemed when the heir-apparent to Israel's throne became a slave. But whether an event or a reverse or not, depends upon what God means by it, and the use man makes of it. If Joseph had become a man-hater, and spent his time bewailing his confessedly hard luck, his going to Egypt would have been a reverse. On the contrary, he triumphed over untoward circumstances. By his industry and fidelity he made himself indispensable to Potiphar, the prison-keeper, and finally to Pharaoh himself.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEVOTIONAL SERVICE.
Motto: There is no sterner Moral-ist, than Pleasure. Byron.
ALL FOR CHRIST. (5) OUR PLEASURES.

There is a so-called pleasure that leaves the eye dull and the senses cloyed. Instead of re-creating it destroys. It saddles, rides and spurs the soul, reversing the Divine order which intends that the soul shall keep the saddle and the body be kept under. Where the aim of existence is pleasure it defeats itself. For if all the year was made of holidays "to sport would be as tedious as to work." Again pleasure in its highest form is social, never selfishness. In seeking to please others it reaches its highest height and really pleases itself the more.

Orfordville News

Orfordville, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Frank Ashby and her father, Mr. Richards, have gone to Des Moines to visit Mrs. Ashby's son, Stanley, who is confined in the military hospital there. He recently underwent an operation. Young Ashby is reported as improving.

As A. E. Tomlin and Gullie Olson were driving a Ford on Monday evening in the vicinity of Janesville something about the car broke, with the result that the vehicle, which was running about 30 miles an hour, turned turtle, pinning both occupants beneath it. Fortunately neither was severely hurt, each sustaining a few minor bruises.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. W. Forbush. She was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. James Taylor.

Miss Lizzie Turner of Janesville spent Sunday in the village, the guest of friends.

At the Lutheran church on Sunday evening a service was held containing 30 stars was dedicated. The address was delivered by the pastor, Rev. L. Gummstad. The service was greatly enjoyed by an audience that filled the church.

John Tomlin of Evansville is assisting at the grist mill for a few days this week.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets. The pleasant little tablets do no good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the testicle, they don't hurt the liver, they don't hold the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "dizziness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "foggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

CHURCH BOWLERS TO START WEDNESDAY

The first crash of the mallets in the church bowling league will be heard at the Y. M. C. A. alley on Wednesday night. A committee, composed of two members from each of the churches in the league, was appointed at a meeting held Wednesday night and that organization will meet Monday to work out details of the season's activities.

The Presbyterian and Congregational leagues will first try conclusions. The Methodist and First Lutheran will roll Dec. 5; St. Peter's and Episcopal Dec. 11 and Christian and Baptist, Dec. 13.

It is planned to have each team meet twice during the season. Instead of determining the standings by the number of games won, the committee has decided that the scores will be kept by the number of pins toppled. It is believed that by this method a much more interesting contest will result.

The committee will arrange to post a schedule a month ahead of the time the games are to be played so that there will be no confusion after the first round. The committee also announces that changes in dates of competition will not be allowed without the consent of both teams. Forfeiture of games is the penalty decided for teams not obeying that rule.

Following are the members of the committee: Presbyterian, W. R. Kohler and C. S. Arwood; Congregational, C. E. Lange and E. S. Wolcott; Methodist, J. E. Lange and J. R. Nichols; Episcopal, T. J. Thompson and S. S. Smith; St. Peter's, G. P. Kueck and E. E. Baumann; Episcopal, Luther Hill and C. L. Finkel; Christian, Charles Quinn and J. Schmidt; Baptist, E. M. Erickson and Alfred Olson.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Nine American boxers, representing all classes from bantams to heavies, are now on the broad Atlantic bound for England, where they will be pitted against the best English pugilists in the great tournament to be held at Albert Hall, London, on Dec. 11 and 12. The American contingent, which sailed from New York recently, upon the arrival in England will be joined by nine other Yankee boxers now serving in the American expeditionary force, so that this nation will be represented by an imposing array of boxing talent.

John Mitchell, the Milwaukee lightweight, probably the best of the team, will meet Benny Leonard, one of the best of the English contenders for the lightweight title. Mitchell has a very clever left hand and should be able to more than hold his own at the English style of boxing. Other lightweights in the ensemble are Cal Delaney and Billy Whelan.

Phil Moore, the Memphis bantam, who is slated to meet Jimmy Smith, the English bantam, has one time or another defeated practically every bantamweight of prominence in the country with the exception of Frankie Burns. He has just won a second round, but is not much of a fighter.

One Bryant and Denny McKee, the welterweight and middleweight representatives, are standing in this country, but if they cross and Mike O'Donnell, who are already over there, enter into the competition, America will be well represented in the divisions.

The heavyweights on the way are Archie Anderson and Jack Helene, both of Chicago.

The United States navy will be represented in this year's six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, the week of Dec. 1 to 7 by Clarence Gardner of Jamaica, the noted sprinter and pace follower. Gardner enlisted in the navy at the close of last year's season, in which he finished fifth with Wiley as a partner.

Alfred Hertz, the Belgian, also sent in his entry recently, and will be teamed with Curtman. Another combination made by the race committee is that of Vincenzo Varri of Italy and Pete Probst of Boston. This is considered one of the best teams in the race.

"Had I had a working agreement with Cleveland a year or so before I did," says Walter Johnson, former manager of the Portland club league team, "Walter Johnson would have come to Cleveland instead of Washington."

"I never have seen Johnson pitch, but I heard a lot about him when he was pitching for a semi-pro team in Welsch, Idaho. Every time he would work, striking out twenty or twenty-two men, I would see in the papers and look him up. I sent several agents down to size him up and try to sign him."

"My scouts were enthusiastic over him, but every time they would try to get him to sign with Portland the owners of the Welsch club would meet the agents by putting a couple of more pool tables or another barber chair in Johnson's place."

"There was only one way to get Johnson out of Welsch and that was to make him a big league offer. I had no such intention and could not do so, but when St. Cloud came through with an offer for Walter to go to Washington it was a cinch."

Having moved the St. Louis Cardinals to Kansas City the rumor mongers now proceed to transfer the Boston Braves to Toronto. Well, at least, they will shorten up the jumps in the old National somewhat, without entering into discussion as to the merits of the new cities as supporters of big league baseball.

The Daily Novelette

THE DAILY NOVELETTE (Great Inventions Series.)

Marcus Hookus, editor of the largest Roman news journal, Via Victorius, was much perturbed. In that morning's mail had come several thousand sheets of parchment with the latest royal efforts of the talented Emperor Nero, the harmonious son of songs. (See Mortimer Horde's "The First Real Bonfire.")

"I haven't enough parchment in all Rome to print this stuff on!" muttered Marcus. "And yet if I don't print it, the Emperor will have me to the grimy galley or imprisonment with the lepers on Isolatus Isle. Ye gods! What a quandary I am in!" And Marcus Hookus beat his head upon a pillar of the office, in his dire dilemma. (See "Ancient Methods of Expressing Forceful Bewilderment" by Lucas Dinarus.)

Just as the editor was falling back upon his marble divan unconscious, he was rudely revived by the loud shouts of the populace down in Applian Way. (See Winegaris Vumpkin's "Reactions of the Roman People after the Spectacular Burning of the Beautiful City of Rome by the Naughty Emperor Nero.")

"Down with Nero! Down with the Tyrant! Down with the murderer of his mother and wife! Down with the killer of his sisters and brothers! Down with the Demiser of uncles and aunts! Down with the igniter of our domestic! Down! Down!" were a small number of the cries that hurried up to Marcus Hookus. "Hip-hip-urra-urra!" cried I. Marcus dancing around in his sandals until he kicked over an onyx incense pot and a Venus de Milo.

Wildly grabbing up the several thousand sheets of Nero's poems, he tore them into pieces with his teeth and joyously threw them to the zealous winds over the stone parapet where they landed over the seething Roman populace. The first confetti was born that day.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

DAVID CARV

Well, it didn't take Billy Bunny and Uncle Lucky quite all night to wash off the coal dust, which I told you about in the last story. I think it was just 14 o'clock when they were as clean and white as they were before they set out with the big wagon to give coal to all the poor freezing bunnies in Rabbitville.

"And now let's have something to eat," said the old gentleman rabbit. So Mrs. Bunny got out some preserved carrots and sweet pickled watermelon rind, and after that the two little rabbits went out for a hop, and by and by, not so very far they came to the Old Farm Yard where Henny Jenny and Cocky Ducky lived, and where the Old Weathercock swung this way and that way on top of the Big Red Barn.

"Look out for Old Sicem!" cried the Weathercock, for he thought, you know, that the old dog might hurt the little bunnies, but he didn't, for he was tied by a chain to his little house. "Isn't he chained?" asked the old gentleman rabbit anxiously, and he pecked through a knot hole in the fence with his right eye, for there wasn't room to look through with both eyes.

"Oh, yes, he's tied up fast," said Turkey Purkey, and then he gobbled and spread his tail like a Japanese fan.

So the two little rabbits hopped into the barn yard, for it was still very early in the morning and the big farmer wasn't out of bed, and Old Sicem was fast asleep dreaming about cats.

Cock-a-doodle-to. The old mare needs a shoe. "Would be a shame if she went lame."

Cock-a-doodle-do! And after Cocky Ducky had sung this song, little Henny Jenny went into the hen house and laid a nice white egg for the farmer's breakfast.

"I'd like to buy a cabbage," said Uncle Lucky to Mrs. Cow, who was waiting at the gate to be milked.

"I guess you'll have to go down to the three and one cent store, for we haven't any left," she answered, and then she tossed her head until the bell at her neck rang thirteen times, and this woke up Old Sicem.

"Wow, wow, wow," went the old dog, and the farmer poked his head out of the little window just under the roof and said, "What's the trouble?" And then he looked over and saw Uncle Lucky and Billy Bunny. And then you should have heard that farmer laugh. Why, he laughed so hard that a single came out of the roof and fell on the top of his head, and he stopped laughing and got dressed, and after that he went and got a big long ladder and put it up against the side of the house, and then he nailed that shingle on again. And in the next story, if he doesn't hit his thumb with the hammer, I'll tell you what happened after that.

LLOYD GEORGE SAYS
GERMANY MUST PAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Newcastle, England, Nov. 29.—Germany must pay the cost of the war to the limit of her capacity, Premier Lloyd George declared in a speech here today.
The submarine Pirates must be punished, the premier added, and whoever devastated the lands of another country ought to be responsible for it.
Referring to the culpability of the authors of the war, Mr. Lloyd George said the government intended that the investigation to be conducted should be perfectly fair but a stern one, and that it should go on to its final reckoning.

"I mean to see that the men who did not treat our prisoners humanely be made responsible," the premier declared. He added that he did not wish to pursue a policy of vengeance, but declared: "We have got so to act that men in the future who feel tempted to follow the example of the rulers who plunged the world into war will know what is waiting for them at the end." Germany, Mr. Lloyd George said, would not be allowed to pay her indemnity by dumping cheap goods in this country.

Epidemic Over.—The epidemic of influenza which has raged in the fire swept regions of Northeastern Minnesota for six weeks, is practically over. Gardfield high school at Cloquet has been vacated as a hospital and all the schools will reopen as soon as the buildings can be cleaned. Superintendent Peter Gleason announced today.
